Poor Daddy Bear can't find somewhere to sleep without being disturbed by noises. You're going to write a story about the 'Knight Who Couldn't Sleep' over the next 3 days.

First let's think about the beginning of your story. Talk to your grown up.

Who is your main character? What does he look like? What is he wearing?

Where does he live? Who else lives there?

Why can't he sleep in his bed? What is making the noise that keeps him awake?

On your first page write some sentences introducing your character, where they are (this is called the setting in a story) and what the problem is.

Maybe you can think of a really good story starter too. Remember you are only writing the beginning today. Write as much as you can but you don't need to fill the page if you find it harder.

Here is an example of the beginning of my story...

The Knight who couldn't sleep

Once long, long ago in a castle far away there lived a Knight. He was a very brave knight but he was also a very tired knight. He climbed the winding staircase to his bedroom at the very top of the tower and went to bed.

But he couldn't sleep.

His alarm clock was ticking loudly on the bedside table...tick, tick, tick, it went.

"I can't stand this! I'm going to find somewhere else to sleep" he moaned.
